Why We Prefer
Littleton Adventist Hospital

Although most deliveries are safe and uneventful, the health and safety of both mother and baby should be the top priority of every expecting parent. This is why we put careful consideration into choosing our delivery hospital of choice. We feel Littleton Adventist Hospital is better equipped to deal with unanticipated emergencies than any other in South Denver. Another factor that is important to us is the patient’s experience. We receive positive feedback about delivery experiences from our patients who deliver at Littleton. The following are some additional factors that assisted us in our decision to deliver at Littleton Adventist Hospital:

- Littleton’s nurses are among the areas most experienced, averaging 15 years of service in maternity nursing care. Many hold national certifications in their field and are members of professional organizations specific to obstetric and neonatal nursing. This experience allows them to be prepared for all types of deliveries.
- Littleton has the only designated Level III B Neonatal Intensive Care Unit (NICU) in the South Denver area providing care to the most critically ill, premature or multiple birth infants. While we hope your baby never needs this level of care, you can have comfort knowing that a team of experienced specialists are available 24 hours a day...just in case.
